

ASKS NATION FOR LAW ENFORCEMENT

SEVENTY THREE ARE GIVEN DIPLOMAS AT HIGH COMMENCEMENT

Graduates Hear Professor In Address—Premier Rose Conferred

Three things make America great, first, natural ability of her people; second, heredity, and third, acquired ability through learning Professor C. H. Freeman, head of the department of English at Ohio Northern University, Ada, O., told his audience at the sixty-sixth commencement exercises of Central High School, Friday night at the First M. E. Church.

He traced the progress of the United States along different lines, stressing the educational successes. "The progress of America, is but an outward expression of the American mind," he said. "We are great because we think great thoughts. Three-fifths of the people of the world today are not affiliated with some church and it has fallen to the schools' lot to take up the church's duty—primarily that of teaching morality."

"There are always two classes of people, those who give and those who take. The safety of the country depends on the high, morality and intelligence of her people," he said in stressing the importance of the right guidance of children. He declared that the American child is taught sound rules in the home, which is powerful in the good standing of the nation.

"It requires no brain to destroy but it does require intelligence to build." He challenged the boys of the graduating class, if they entered college, to watch their associates, to be honest and industrious and to affiliate with some church.

"Too many young men want to step on the top rung of the ladder to success at the very start," was one of his closing statements.

Professor Freeman was introduced by C. A. Waltz, city superintendent of schools, who was formerly in Professor Freeman's classes at Ohio Northern.

The address was followed by the conferring of the Premier Rose on Miss Louise Wood and William Horner, who were chosen by their classmates to receive this honor. The custom was inaugurated by Harper C. Pendry, principal of the school, four years ago, and the presentation is now a feature of the graduating exercises.

The ten honor students of the class were then presented their diplomas, followed by the rest of the class roll. Following the presentation Superintendent Waltz made a short talk, advising the graduates of the responsibility that rested with them in leaving high school and the importance of choosing the right path.

The program of the evening opened with two selections by the high school orchestra, under the direction of E. G. Whitworth. Miss Louise Wood played the organ processional during the entrance of the class in caps and gowns. Invocation was pronounced by the Rev. W. H. Telford of the First Presbyterian Church.

William Horner of the graduating class sang two songs, "Duna" by Gill and "Give a Man a Horse He Can Ride," by Geoffrey O'Hara, accompanied by Miss Marjorie Street.

Miss Mary Noble, also of the class of 1925, gave two violin solos, accompanied by Miss Street. The program closed with an orchestra selection and the benediction by the Rev. R. E. Brown.

The 1925 class included the following students:

Children of the War

We are the children who yesterday
Laughed in abandon at our play
As the glowing light of war's wild flame
Guided grief on the deep as it came.
Terror grow in our childish eyes
When the smoke of battle blackened our skies.
Crosses rose like flowers in the night,
And the Cross that conquers might with right
Shrivelled in the heat of men's foul greed,
Mocked by faith in an earthly creed.

We are the children whose pain was deep,
Our innocent lips were locked to keep
The fear and dread that earth never healed
Sweeping the shell-torn battlefield.
Our Mothers taught us prayers to waken
The pitying love of a God Forsaken.
Death and destruction were notes in the song
That half the nations of earth swept along,
Till contempt was burned in the whitening fire
Of the sacrifice of human desire.

We are the children whose tomorrow
Reaps the gift of chastened sorrow,
Knowing the trumpets blown for peace
Are but the sounds that gave release
After the task of tired, dead hands
Salvaged the dreams of their far, proud lands.
In our hearts the splendor glows
That from those graves of glory rose.
We are the children whose happiness
Is bought of wounds and war's distress.

DISCUSS SENDING AID TO FLYERS

Norway Government Divided On Question of Sending Aid To Amundsen Party—Put off Decision Until Later Meet

Oslo, May 30.—The Norwegian government was divided today over the advisability of sending an expedition into the Polar region to search for the Amundsen-Ellsworth flyers who left Spitzbergen in two aeroplanes, two weeks ago last Thursday. In view of Amundsen's instruction that he might not return from his North Pole flight for two weeks, government officials, after discussing the question at one meeting of the cabinet, decided to continue it to another meeting.

The cabinet will discuss proposals made to the government by the aeronautic society and the navy board regarding plans for relief, at its next meeting and probably will decide to dispatch planes, it was said today.

The society has asked that the steamer Farm—one of the Amundsen expedition vessels—be allowed to remain indefinitely in waters around Spitzbergen to afford all possible aid to the Amundsen party.

The society has also asked the government that the official search expedition be composed of two navy aeroplanes.

Public sentiment in Oslo is that the government should take speedy action toward determining the action of the Amundsen-Ellsworth flyers.

Members of the Amundsen party, who still are at Spitzbergen, will support the action of the aeronautic society in urging the government to seek Amundsen, according to reports from Spitzbergen.

The Norwegian air service advanced the theory that Amundsen's delay is due to his having landed his aeroplanes some distance from the pole and then to have gone on to it afoot.

SPORT SCRIBE DEAD

New York, May 30.—William H. Hicks, sporting editor of the New York Evening Journal, for nearly twenty years, is dead at his home here today. He died suddenly late yesterday, following an operation. He was 51 years old and was a native of Chicago.

FORTUNE IN FLOWERS DECKS GRAVES

America's dead will sleep this Memorial Day beneath the richest tribute this nation ever has offered to a sentiment—50,000,000 individual blossoms, representing virtually every variety of flower. The fortune thus scattered upon the nation's graves, it is estimated, will total $5,000,000.

These figures were obtained in a national survey just completed by the National Memorial Day Association, through its research department.

This survey disclosed that a greater number of blossoms per capita were distributed last year

SURVEYOR FINISHES NEW MAP OF COUNTY

A large blue print map of Greene County, the first to be made for the past fifteen years at the county surveyor's office, has been completed, it was announced Friday by County Surveyor W. J. Davis.

The map includes all of the farms and owners in Greene County together with the total acreage of the farm, and simplifies work at the office.

PUBLISH AT NOON

Following the annual custom of allowing employees of The Gazette and The Republican a half holiday on Memorial Day, The Gazette went to press at noon, Saturday. The business offices of the plant were closed the entire day, the editorial and mechanical departments working until noon to print the regular edition of the paper.

MERCHANTS WONDER IF BLUE THREAT IS BLUFF ATTEMPT

Will the Sunday closing laws, popularly known as Blue Laws, be universal in Greene County Sunday? Attorney F. L. Johnson, at the instigation of his unknown clients, issued an ultimatum Friday that it must be.

Prosecutor J. C. Marshall remains silent on the question.

Xenia and Greene County business men who may be effected by the state law governing "Sabbath desecration" are undecided whether to keep their places of business open as usual despite the warning of arrests to follow, or close Sunday to escape arrest.

Many are of the opinion that Attorney Johnson is bluffing in his threat to make wholesale arrests next week following failure to close Sunday, and that his clients believe that the simple threat will accomplish their demands.

The fact remains in the minds of many, however, that two arrests this week followed failure of certain businesses to close last Sunday.

PRESIDENT MAKES PLEA FOR BETTER GOVERNMENT

Last Straggling Hosts of G. A. R. Hear Coolidge Memorial Message at Arlington Cemetery—Arraigns Federal System Defects.

Washington, May 30.—From the well of the great memorial amphitheatre at Arlington National cemetery, President Coolidge today sounded a stirring appeal to the nation to observe and enforce the law.

Coupled with his plea, the president bluntly charged the states with evading their constitutionally-given responsibility and causing a loss of confidence in both law and its enforcement and therefore in its observance.

"What we need," he declared, "is not more federal government, but better local government."

"When the local government unit evades its responsibility in one direction," he said apropos of lax enforcement conditions in many localities, "it is started in the vicious way of disregard of law and laxity of living. The police force which is administered on the assumption that the violation of some laws may be ignored has started toward demoralization. The community which approves such administration is making dangerous concessions. There is no use disguising the fact that as a nation our attitude toward the prevention and punishment of crime needs more serious attention. It is senseless to boast of our liberty when we find that to so shocking an extent it is merely the liberty to go ill-governed."

Taking up the problems of interstate relations the president declared the boast that America is a land of equal opportunity suffers through existence of wide divergencies in state laws. He mentioned specifically the differences in various state laws governing divorce, taxation and prohibition enforcement.

"The multiplicity of laws, the varied possibilities of appeals, the disposition to technically in procedure, the delays and consequent expense of litigation which inevitably inure to the advantage of wealth and specialized ability—all these have many times been recounted as reproaches to us," he said.

"It is strange that such laxities should persist in a time like the present. But they do exist. They demonstrate a need for better, prompt, less irksome and expensive administration of the laws. They point the necessity for simplification and codification of laws; for uniformity of procedure; for more accurate delimitation of state and federal authority."

"Our gathering here today is in testimony of supreme obligation to those who have given most to make and preserve the nation. They established it upon the dual system of state government and national government each supreme in its own sphere. But they left to the states the main powers and functions of determining the form and course of society. We have demonstrated in the time of war that under the constitution we possess an indestructible union. We must not fail to demonstrate in time of peace that we are likewise determined to possess and maintain indestructible states. This policy can be greatly advanced by individual observance of the law. The can be strongly supplemented by a vigorous enforcement of the law. The war which establishes Memorial Day had for its main purpose the enforcement of the constitution. This union can only be preserved, under a reign of national, local and moral law, under the constitution, established by Washington, under the peace provided by Lincoln."

Gathered before the president as he spoke were the last straggling hosts of the Grand Army of the Republic. He told them their fight for preservation of the nation sixty years ago might prove to be in vain unless their descendants cast off indifference and rigidly upheld the laws of the land.

Perhaps never before in his administration of the chief magistracy, has Mr. Coolidge delivered such an outspoken arraignment of existing defects in the federal system as he did today.

Pleading for preservation of the dual system of state government and national government, each supreme in its own sphere, he relentlessly called national attention to every defect and every evil of the present day governmental structure.

He specifically charged the several states with failing to perform their full duties; with wilfully ignoring in some communities, certain laws and condoning their violation, with permitting inequalities and divergencies to exist between laws of various states governing the same subjects and with permitting conditions to exist that make possible an evasion of law or a delay in punishment through recourse to technicalities, wealth and specialized ability.

The president mentioned the national prohibition law but once directly in his speech and then as an instance wherein the federal government was forced to assume what fundamentally is a state prerogative.

"A few years ago," he commented, "a majority of the states had adopted prohibition or rigid restrictions on the traffic in intoxicating liquor. But other states did not co-operate in adding the union. By failing to meet the vancing his policy and ultimately, by requirements of a national demand, the state became deprived of the power to act."

Mr. Coolidge attributed the increasing demands of the federal government to failure of the states themselves to discharge their duties, and sarcastically paid his respects to those who expected more from Washington than it was ever intended to provide and yet, in the same breath complain that federal authority is stretching itself over areas which do not concern it.

Three others were to attempt to qualify this morning. Last year there were only eight to qualify at a speed better than 100 miles an hour.

The race today will get under way at ten o'clock. The winner will find a purse approximately of $20,000 awaiting him. In addition there are $30,000 in awards for the best lap time, the leader at the half way mark and the leader at the end of each 100 miles.

The cars will start in the following order: three cars to the row: Miller, Duray; Dusenberg, DePaole; Miller, Hartz; Junior, Cooper; Junior, Lewis; Miller, Hepburn; Miller, Kresbos; Flat, Bordino; Dusenberg, Ellingbo; Miller, Elliott; Miller, Milton; Miller, Comers; Miller, Hill; Miller, Shattuck; Miller, DeVore; Dusenberg, Morton; Jones-Whittaker, Jones; Miller, DePalma; R. J. Vail (special) Vail; Dusenberg, Manogh; Skelly, (special) Skelly; Dusenberg, Shafer.

Three others who have a chance to qualify this morning are: Belt, super-Ford; Thickston, Smith Special and Alley, Koss-Line Special.

COMMERCE PAUSES IN SILENT TRIBUTE TO DEAD SOLDIERS

Industries in Greene County halted Saturday, Memorial Day, business houses closed, and commerce paused in silent tribute, as a mark of respect to the dead soldiers of three wars.

Memorial Day observance was universal in the county with plans of patriotic organizations completed. Services were conducted at all county cemeteries and the usual parade will take place Saturday afternoon in Xenia.

The procession will form at Main and Collier, and although with sadly depleted ranks, veterans of three wars, will march side by side in silent tribute to their departed comrades.

Pleasure seekers took advantage of the perfect summer weather to flock to the theatres, parks and highways.

A GOOD BROOM IS PRODUCT OF FINE AND CLEVER WORK

What is more provoking to a housewife than to be busily sweeping her home, with vigorous, quick strokes and to have a broom that leaves a trail of straws over the path she has swept?
Or to have a broom that soon lost its firmness, became an unkempt looking article, the entire piece showing poor workmanship and, did you by the way ever notice the exacting workmanship required in a broom, the skill it took to fashion the clumsy straw into such a handy article?
Every broom made at the Hunt Broom Factory, Dayton Avenue, has the stamp of expert workmanship and you can rest assured that a broom made at that plant will pay for its price in service and dependability.
From a humble origin, the Hunt factory has grown to be the second largest broom factory in the state. The plant turns out several hundred brooms a month and is busy filling orders over the entire country.
Only expert workmen are employed and since the process is a tedious one, the work is aided with the installation of the most modern of machinery, to speed production.

BUILDING BOOM TO CONTINUE IS BELIEF OF MANY

Contractors all over the city are confident that Xenia is to have a big building year through the summer, as evidenced by the increase in construction during the past spring. Many major projects have been started, including business buildings and private residences.
J. W. Kendrick, general contractor, has given proof of his belief in a building boom, since he has started the construction of several residences on North Galloway Street.
Mr. Kendrick has introduced several innovations in the building art, and his houses under construction have been the center of interest of home-lovers. He combines a unique style with practical models and the homes he builds, while out of the ordinary are ideal in their simple construction and arrangement.
He will be glad to furnish estimates for you on any line of work and no matter how big the job is you'll find he has a ready knowledge of anything in the building line you may want to know.

T. C. LONG GIVES SERVICE IN BIG REALTY BUSINESS

Most any man will tell you that one of the greatest moments of his life was the occasion when he moved into his own home.
You, too, can enjoy moving into your own home. You, too, like thousands of other individuals can have the extreme pleasure of moving into your own.
Why pay rent any longer? Find your ideal type of home, by consulting T. C. Long, realtor, with offices in the Wilson Building. He will be glad to give you information on homes in various parts of the city and county.
On the other hand, if you wish to sell your farm or city property, within a short time and at the most reasonable figure, consult Mr. Long.
Mr. Long has a wide acquaintance over this district and has gained a large business through his square dealing, both for the seller and the buyer. It is the service and personal interest that he offers you that has brought so many home-seekers to him in the past. SNUBBERS ARE A VITAL AUTO FACTOR WITH NEW TIRES

With balloon and low pressure tires coming into stronger favor constantly, Gabriel Snubbers are more than ever a necessity on motor cars, say the proprietors of Swigart Brothers Garage, East Second Street.
The new Gabriel Balloon Type Snubber is designed to give the necessary free play which allows the tires to absorb the small bumps on apparently smooth roads.
"A set of Gabriels on a car more than pays for itself by saving in tires, body socks and wear on the chassis parts," say Messrs. Swigart. "It does this by minimizing the jolts to which every car is subject while on the road. This is thoroughly proved by the fact that practically every manufacturer of quality automobiles, includes snubbers as factory equipment on at least some of his models, or drills holes in the frame especially for their installation."

KNOW YOUR TEAM'S STANDING—GO TO HAYWARD'S SHOP

Baseball fans have to wait no longer on the evening paper to come out, giving the results of the day's game. They can keep in step with each play, by watching the ticker, installed in the Hayward Cigar Store, East Main Street.
Crowds group around the ticker each afternoon and closely follow the results of the games over the country. The ticker is only one of the attractive features of the Hayward Store, which handles a large stock of the finest tobacco.
Delicious sandwiches are on hand at the shop at any hour of the day, and during the warm summer months cooling drinks are sold to the large number of customers.
The shop is a popular congregating place for men over the city and the informality and good spirit of the place, makes the shop hold a good business record.

PURITY OF DAIRY PRODUCTS POINT TO BE STRESSED

Now that cows are allowed to roam over green pastures, butter has once again taken on the golden tint and milk and cream are thick and rich in their freshness.
Most housewives are more particular about good butter in the summer time, because it is more apt to get rancid during the hot weather. Butter sold by the Springfield Dairy Products Company, Hill Street, is golden in its own natural color, no foreign products being used to color or cheapen the product and every housewife can be sure that she is getting the purest and freshest milk, cream, butter and all dairy products if she trades with this firm.
The Springfield Dairy Products deliver its products to all parts of the city and there is no worry about their condition, because they are made from the purest milk handled in the most sanitary manner and delivered while perfectly fresh from the plant.

VEGETABLES AND FRUIT IMPORTANT FACTORS OF DIET

The coming of warm weather spells sluggish blood, lack of the proper vitality and a general building up of the system, to many.
Physicians agree that one of the most important factors of diet and food that will purify the blood and give new vigor to the entire system is fresh fruit or vegetables.
The practice of eating fresh fruit and green vegetables the year round is a good one as they keep the body in a healthy condition and assist digestion. But the good results are particularly noticeable in the summer, when the heat-giving foods of winter are abandoned and fresher, and more simple things are chosen for the menu.
The highest quality in fruits and vegetables is noticed in the large Main Street, Mr. Nichols is always a little ahead of the season in his offering of the newest fruits and vegetables and many popular articles of eating are to be found there without difficulty. The combination of fruit and vegetables is an important one with all meals and success in obtaining a variety is appreciated by housewives.

PLAN JAIL TERMS FOR MOTORISTS IN SAFETY CAMPAIGN

Washington, May 30.—Traffic courts throughout the United States are beginning to heed the cry of street safety advocates by sending careless and drunken automobile drivers to jail, according to reports received by Secretary of Commerce Hoover, chairman of the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety.
Until the attention of the public was focused on the heavy loss of life resulting from traffic accidents there was a tendency toward leniency on the part of the courts for offenders, officials of the conference said.
The drive for more drastic enforcement of the statutes and for the adoption of more effective legislation against violators of traffic laws has been reflected in a considerably reduced death rate during the first four months of 1925.
Last year from 19,000 to 20,000 persons were killed in traffic accidents.
Schools, churches, civic and commercial bodies throughout the United States are co-operating with Secretary Hoover's safety organization to make the streets and highways safer.
Prior to December, when the national conference meets in Washington, a number of its subordinate committees will hold meetings to formulate recommendations aimed at improving traffic conditions.
Chief Magistrate William McAdoo, of New York, heads the law enforcement committee. He has made a wide study of traffic conditions in New York, probably the most trying from the standpoint of regulation of any city in the world. Ideas to regulation successfully employed in New York will be passed on for the benefit of other cities.
Washington, according to Secretary Hoover, has been converted into a gigantic traffic laboratory, where a new system is being tried out, which, it is hoped, will be applicable to other cities of the United States.
The American Automobile Association, co-operating in the safety drive has asked the various motor clubs in the United States to get behind the movement.
"A few years ago the impression was that motor clubs in many cases consisted of motorists banded together to advance their own selfish interests regardless of the rights of others," declared A. B. Barber, of the national safety conference.
"But, with the aid of the splendid organizations effected both locally and nationally by the American Automobile Association, a standard of conduct—a code of ethics for motor operations—is rapidly gaining strength. It will make the law necessary only against those relatively few who will continue to abuse the privileges of the streets and highways."

BANKERS TO MEET

MAC RAE'S POEM HAS INSPIRED MESSAGE OF LEGION OFFICER

Commander James A. Drain Promises To "Keep Faith" With Those Who Died

Indianapolis, Indiana, May 30.—The Memorial Day message of James A. Drain, National Commander, to The American Legion is published in The American Legion Weekly today as follows:

To you, from falling hands, we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high.

You will recognize those lines from the most famous poem inspired by the World War—Colonel John MacRae's "In Flanders Field." Colonel MacRae himself sleeps in Flanders Field. His message rings true wherever men pause in the routine of their lives to gain a renewed spirit of consecration to country from homage they give to the memory of men who died for country in all of our wars.

To us, of the Legion, that annual pause of a moment brings a re-consecration whose impress is stamped peeper on our hearts every Memorial Day. For we served side by side with these men whose memory we honor, and side by side with those other men, still carrying the scars of their devotion, whom we honor face to face.

This year, working as a more powerful, closely-knit unit than ever before since we came out of war, we are translating this re-consecration into a most constructive and practical movement which we call the American Legion Endowment Fund. The income from this Fund will be devoted to the service of the Legion in aid of our disabled comrades and to the care of the children whose fathers did not come back.

This is the finest monument The American Legion can raise in memory of its departed and in homage to its maimed comrades. To us, from falling hands, they have thrown the torch. It is ours to hold it high. We shall keep the faith.

ATTENTION TURNED TO FRANCE AS OTHER NATIONS PAY DEBTS

Washington, May 30.—Having received assurances that two of the principal debtors of the United States—Italy, and Belgium—are getting ready to send debt funding commissions to Washington during the summer, the government today concentrated its attention on France, more hopeful than ever that definite plans for funding the $4,000,000,000 French debt would now be forthcoming.

It was the opinion of members of the American debt commission that the French government, even if its plan for paying its debt to this country, had not been worked out in complete detail, would not delay much longer in getting on the band wagon and that some such formal gesture by France would be made, such as promise through the French ambassador here, to open debt negotiations at an early date. This is all that has actually been done by Belgium and Italy, although the former's promise was more definite than that of Italy in that Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, as chairman of the American debt commission has been advised by the Belgian ambassador that part of the personnel of the Belgian debt commission already has been selected and that the members will proceed to the United States following a debt conference to take place shortly among officials of the Brussels government.

FAMOUS FRENCH RECIPES

HACHIS PARMENTIER

Hachis Parmentier (hash parmentier) is one of the best-known receipts for French hash and the French housewife's way of getting rid of cooked leftovers.

It may be made of left-overs of pork, veal, mutton or beef. Chop the meat into very fine pieces, removing all the skin and gristle. Fry a chopped onion in butter and sprinkle with flour. Add the chopped meat and a little bouillon to make it boil without burning. The meat should then be like a thick paste which can be spread.

Butter a special flat dish and put in mashed potatoes to which have been added beaten eggs and some grated cheese. Spread over a layer of the meat, then one of the potatoes, and sprinkle with cheese. Continue until both meat and potatoes are finished, adding lumps of fresh butter from time to time. Bake in a hot oven. Southern Frenchmen add a touch of garlic to the dish which is equally good hot or cold.

GETS FARM

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Persinger of Washington, C. H., have made a gift of a 240 acre farm, located at Cook's Station, near Mount Sterling, to Wilmington College. It was announced Friday by J. Edwin Jay, president of the college.

MODISH MITZI—Simple Costumes For The Simple Life

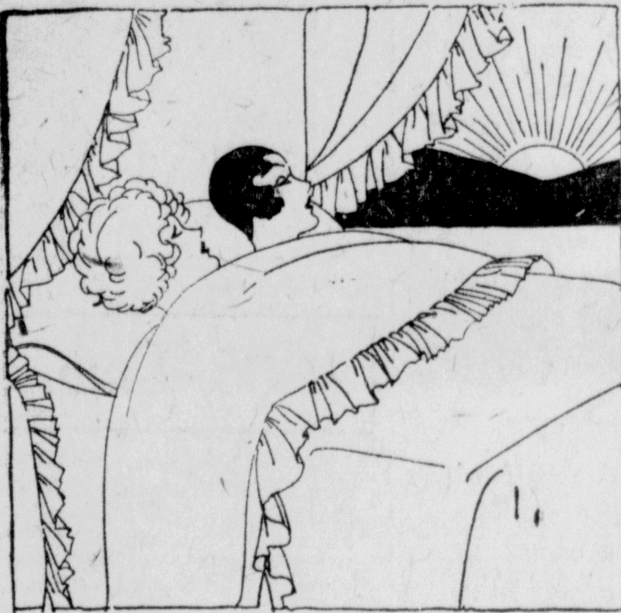

By JAY V. JAY

This country life is wonderful. But it makes one talk rashly. Where is that resolution to get up at sunrise and pick strawberries made by Mitzi and Polly? Here's the sunrise and you can clearly see they have no intention of rising with the sun or anything else.

This is the same morning later. A good deal later. Mitzi and Polly are picking strawberries. Mitzi's part is in pointing them out. Polly has urged her not to get her printed voile frock soiled, a full skirt with godets is meant for greater things.

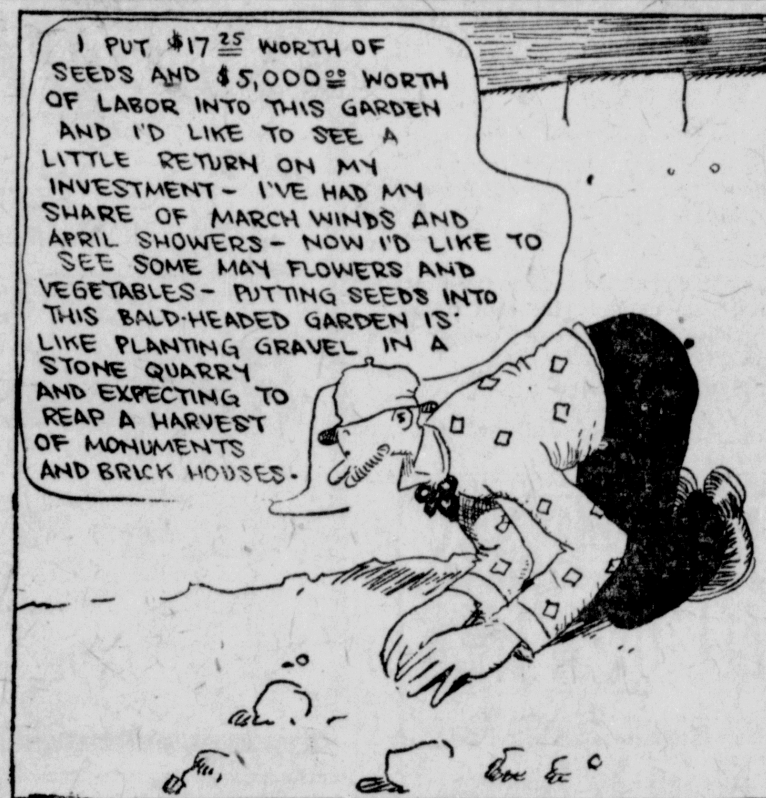

Polly, the practical little person, wears an apron frock. It's an English sateen and has pockets in it and ties in the back. Polly is wondering where all the strawberries went that she picked. There don't seem to be so many in the basket. Mitzi is perfectly guileless.

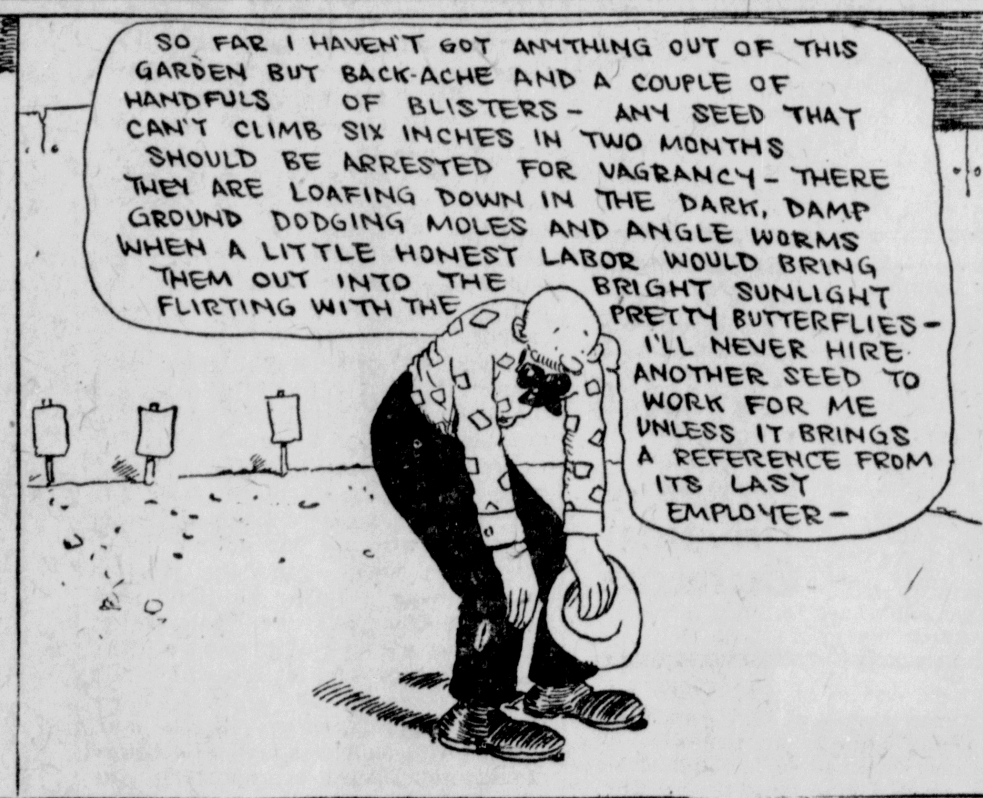

Aunt Sophia protests: "There must have been more than these." But Polly knows that there aren't any more than those, now. She did her best and Aunt Sophia appreciates it. Mitzi is going to change into a simple little garden frock... for gardening.

THE GUMPS—THE HARVEST

I PUT $17.25 WORTH OF SEEDS AND $5,000.00 WORTH OF LABOR INTO THIS GARDEN AND I'D LIKE TO SEE A LITTLE RETURN ON MY INVESTMENT—I'VE HAD MY SHARE OF MARCH WINDS AND APRIL SHOWERS—NOW I'D LIKE TO SEE SOME MAY FLOWERS AND VEGETABLES—PUTTING SEEDS INTO THIS BALD-HEADED GARDEN IS LIKE PLANTING GRAVEL IN A STONE QUARRY AND EXPECTING TO REAP A HARVEST OF MONUMENTS AND BRICK HOUSES.

SO FAR I HAVEN'T GOT ANYTHING OUT OF THIS GARDEN BUT BACKACHE AND A COUPLE OF HANDFULS OF BLISTERS—ANY SEED THAT CAN'T CLIMB SIX INCHES IN TWO MONTHS SHOULD BE ARRESTED FOR VAGRANCY—THEY ARE LOAFING DOWN IN THE DARK, DAMP GROUND DODGING MOLES AND ANGLE WORMS WHEN A LITTLE HONEST LABOR WOULD BRING THEM OUT INTO THE BRIGHT SUNLIGHT PRETTY BUTTERFLIES—I'LL NEVER HIRE ANOTHER SEED TO WORK FOR ME UNLESS IT BRINGS A REFERENCE FROM ITS LAST EMPLOYER—

STUDY MERCHANT MARINE

AT the request of the President a careful study is being made by the various executive departments into the recommendations submitted by organizations which represent practically the entire merchant marine of the country. The report which results from this study will doubtless be used by the President as a basis for his recommendations to the next Congress on the subject of the merchant marine.

Just what will be done about the American marine is of course problematical, but it is expected that some plan will be evolved calculated to keep the American flag flying on the high seas. Statistics compiled for the administration, however, show that some action must be taken in behalf of the merchant marine. For instance, during the eight months ending with February last, American ships conveyed 36.89 per cent in value of our exports and 31.23 per cent of our imports, as compared with 39.29 per cent of our imports in the corresponding eight months ending with February, 1924. It is declared authoritatively that this tendency, if left to go on unchecked, eventually would bring our shipping where it stood in 1914, when only nine per cent of our imports and exports were being conveyed in American vessels.

LINING UP FOR TAX REDUCTION

EVIDENTLY Secretary Mellon's crusade in behalf of further income tax reduction is bearing results. The Secretary in his speeches has been conducting a campaign of education. On two recent occasions he has invaded the South. He makes the same argument everywhere. High surtaxes send capital into the retirement of non-taxable securities and the Government is deprived of revenue that otherwise would swell its receipts. There is not the shadow of doubt of this. The proof is overwhelming.

Mr. Mellon is on the right track. He insists that this question of tax reduction and tax reform is non-partisan. He recalls to his hearers that Senator Glass, Democrat, took the same view on surtaxes when Secretary of the Treasury under President Wilson. To make it certain that he cannot be accused of drafting a bill for the coming session of Congress to consider, Mr. Mellon intends to give advice only, leaving to the respective committees of the House and Senate the task of formulating a measure.

Republican leaders are very generally agreed that the surtaxes must come down and that reductions must be applied to other schedules. The chairmen of the House Ways and Means and Appropriations Committees are not far apart. Speaker Lonkworth looks for a revised law. Representative Bacharach of New Jersey, a member of Ways and Means, is of the sensible opinion that all surtaxes should be abolished in the interest of simpler administration and that progressive normal taxes would bring in the amount from surtaxes, but his suggestion has not been taken up seriously. Last week Senator Couzens, who has long been the enemy of Secretary Mellon, announced in a speech at Baltimore that he favored cutting surtaxes to a 20 per cent maximum and abolishing taxes on all incomes of less than $5000. Senator Willis' slogan is "A million a day of tax away."

Secretary Mellon's appeal for non-partisan action creates the opportunity for Democratic co-operation. Senator Glass of Virginia and Senator Bruce of Maryland, both Democrats, practically support the Secretary. It is quite possible that Democratic policy will tend toward a more severe cutting than is wise and to this extent many embrace politics. But in any event, if the Democratic leaders hope to resuscitate their party, they must sever relations with La Follette bloc and go in for constructive legislation.

JUST FOLKS

HIDE YOUR HEADACHES

It is human to suffer, the toothache's a thing
Which is apt to occur to both peasant and king;
This body is prey to all manner of pain,
A headache will come to the commonest brain;
There are all sorts of trouble for mortals to know,
Which the foolish display and the wise never show.

Jim Green kept a shop and the wares he displayed
And the prices he charged should have built up a trade,
But if Jim had a headache, then all who might come
To buy from his stock found him surly and glum,
He'd quarrel o'er trifles and grouch through the day
And "take it or leave it," he'd frequently say.

The customers found in their dealings with Jim
'Twas a difficult thing to do business with him;
They heard him complain of the troubles he bore,
And they tired of his conduct and passed up his store,
His prices were fair and his goods were the best
But to put up with Jim was too much of a test.

It's the man, not the store, when it's all said and done!
To the man goes the battle and not to the gun!

And what Jim Green forgot was the stock on his shelf
Could never be sold till he'd first sold himself.
So his customers left for a pleasanter place
To be served by a man with a smile on his face.

The moral is plain. If you're troubled, don't show it!
If you've a headache don't let people know it!

THE ETERNAL CARAVAN

Like silent shadows of the night,
Moved an endless column, of the dead;
Surrounded by unearthly light,
With a "Mighty Leader" at their head!

Triumphantly in spectral array,
He led them onward, 'neath the skies I saw;
From "Tenements of Clay,"
"Immortal Souls," in glory, rise!

Then closer came the myriad dead,
And plainly could I see,
The "Supreme One" was at their head,
Their goal—Eternity!

MEMORIAL DAY

EAR FROM THE MADDING CROWD"

1905-Twenty Years Ago-1925

Harry Armstrong was elected captain of Company L, 4th Regiment of the Ohio National Guard, at an election which took place Wednesday.

The Xenia Driving Club's opening race meet for the season took place Thursday afternoon at the fair grounds and was attended by a large number of people.

Of the class of six young men who, Wednesday took a preliminary physical examination for the appointment at the Annapolis naval academy to succeed Charles Adair, four failed.

OUR GALLANT DEAD

The following Memorial Day poem was written by Mrs. Julia G. Olds, Cincinnati, formerly Miss Julia Gallorey and well known here.

I often think of Flanders' Fields
Where wild the poppies blow,
And stark white wooden crosses gleam
In slanting row on row.

I cannot think of them as dead
Who sleep beneath the sod;
Their eager souls press ever on
Up to the heights of God.

The ancient flower of Chivalry
Fond full fruition there
In deeds of matchless bravery
And love beyond compare.

There youth in verdant purity
Planned into manhood's bloom
And burgeoned for futurity
Triumphant o'er the tomb.

Out from the sorrows of the past
A race of men walked free;
And from the life blood of our sires
We gained our liberty.

We cannot count their lives as lost,
Though sown in grief and pain,
Who gives, himself—nor counts the cost,
Can live or die in vain.

—Julia G. Olds.

THINKING

Everything depends on how we think.

If we do no thinking everything then is wrong. The world is twisted. And, so, naturally, we slide with the world.

Every rule, every act, every impulse is at the beck and call of some thought.

The human frame will put up with a marvelous amount of wrong thinking, but it will bounce upward in health and happiness at every thought that has for its purpose the bettering of this world.

A person is able to think himself into most anything. A great engineer once told me that he thought himself into the marvelous success that came to him. He started with nothing, seemingly. He thought himself into vast power and influence.

We must all think ourselves along. And if the way gets very rough at times, we must do more and better thinking.

Thoughts are both the father and mother of deeds.

The very membranes and numerous organs of the body are but willing servants to the brain in its imaginings and thinking.

The more thinking you do the fewer mistakes you are bound to make, and the greater progress you are sure to meet.

And if you get into a tight place, don't fret and worry and run. Think. Calmly think—and then bravely act. The result will take care of itself.

The reason why human beings dominate and rule is because they think.

You can think yourself into a very beautiful world, even though it may show before your very eyes the evidence of great wreckage and disaster.

The great God thought this world all out in advance. And when He had established its basic parts it made Him very happy.

TO BUILD SUBWAY

Chillicothe, May 30.—In compliance with the request of city officials, engineers of the Baltimore and Ohio and the Norfolk and Western railroads have submitted tentative plans and estimates for a subway at the main street crossings. The railroad engineers' estimate of the cost of this improvement is $416,000, compared with City Engineer Richards' estimate of $275,000. Accepting higher units of cost on labor and material accounts for the railroad engineers' higher estimate.

UNVEIL OLD CANNON

Middleport, May 30.—An ancient brass cannon, found in an old Spanish fort, in the Philippine islands, will be unveiled here today (Memorial Day). The old piece was presented to Meigs County by a retired army officer, Gen. S. W. Fountain.

THE X-Y-CO.

What is meant by "long circuit appeal" and "short circuit appeal" in advertising?

In general, it may be said that long circuit appeal advertising appeals to the reason while short circuit appeal advertising appeals to the emotions. If the message of the advertiser is a short, vivid one which can be told in a few words it almost always depends on its appeal for its emotional effect. Cigarette, perfume and toilet accessory ads usually use this appeal.

An ad which captivates your interest by some startling phrase and then goes into a discussion of the merits of the product it is advertising is a long circuit appeal ad. Several motor manufacturers have put out some very good ads of this type recently. A careful study is necessary to determine which type should be used for any particular advertisement and product.

KELLY COMPANY NINE DEFEATS TILTONS IN PITCHERS DUEL AT WASHINGTON PARK FRIDAY

The R. A. Kelly Company nine continued the fast pace it has been setting in the Saturday Afternoon League Friday night by defeating the Tiltons' "33" nine by a score of 5 to 3 in a seven inning classic at the Washington Park diamond.

The game developed into a pitcher's battle between Milburn for the Kelly team and D. Fuller for the Tiltons, with the former having a slight edge.

Milburn fanned six and allowed but six hits while Fuller struck out five and granted eight hits.

The winners got away to a flying start in the first two innings scoring two runs in each frame but Fuller put on the brakes and held the Kelly nine to one run in the remaining five innings.

The Tiltons bunched hits in the third to score twice and chalked up a final marker in the eighth on passes.

The game was fast and cleanly played with misplays few and far between. The winners made but two errors and the Tiltons but one.

Ritter played a bang up game at second for the Kellys clouting out a pair of doubles and scoring one run himself in three trips to the plate. He also accepted four chances in the field cleanly. Berger was good for a double and a single.

Brickie, D. Fuller, Mendenhall, J. Fuller, Cain and Bottorff each lost safely for the Tiltons.

Games in the Saturday Afternoon League will be resumed next Saturday. The lineup and score:

BLUE RIBBONS HAVE GOOD REPUTATION

The Reserves will tackle a sturdy diamond foe at Washington Park Sunday afternoon when they engage the Blue Ribbons of Dayton.

The Ribbons have a classy outfit and have been showing the way to all teams around Dayton and vicinity. They have been playing excellent ball and the Reserves will be in for a merry time when they take on the Ribbon outfit. They have scored wins over Tipp City and Middletown Middies and other fast clubs while they lost but one game this being their opener to the Dayton Nickles by a 11 to 8 score. The Ribbon have been organized for five seasons and are always noted for having a smart, clean and fast ball club. They possess a bunch of sluggers that is liable to break up a game most anytime.

The Reserves will use the same lineup against the Ribbons that they will against the Cubs and they are confident with Cyphers in the box they can defeat the Gem City tribe but they will have to step plenty fast in order to do so. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock.

URBANA HIGH BEATS BATH BASEBALLERS

After three innings of scoreless baseball, Urbana High School broke the ice in the fourth scoring three runs and was never headed, defeating Bath High at Urbana Friday by a score of 8 to 3.

Bath was only able to score in the sixth when three tallies trickled over the plate. With two men on the paths, Fisher, Bath catcher, clouted out a home run.

Pitchers Bodey and Wilson proved a puzzle to Bath batters who were only able to hit safely four times. Hunter pitched a fine game for Bath retiring ten men by the strike-out route, but errors by his teammates coupled with timely hitting by Urbana players contributed to the defeat.

The game was marred by the ragged fielding of both teams, Bath making six misplays and Urbana five.

R. H. HAMILTON TAKES FIRST MOVIES OF TWAIN SUMMER HOME

R. H. Hamilton, lecturer, returned Friday afternoon from Elmira, N. Y., where he spent two weeks giving a course of lectures to girl students of Elmira College for the Lewis Hotel Training School of Washington, D. C.

Mr. Hamilton lectured on hotel training and fifty girls who took the course to qualify for summer hotel work at Adirondack resorts were placed by him for the summer.

Elmira is the first college to give degrees to women. It is said. While at Elmira, Mr. Hamilton made moving pictures of college activities, the campus and buildings, and accompanied the student body to Watkins Glen, N. Y. where motion pictures were taken of the annual May Day ceremonies. It was also on his visit there that

Mr. Hamilton was permitted to take motion pictures of Mark Twain's summer home and study, near Elmira, where he wrote "Huckleberry Finn" and a number of other of his important works. Permission for the photography at "Quarry Farm," a mile or two from the village, was given by Colonel Langdon, Twain's brother-in-law, after Mr. Hamilton gave assurance they would not be used for advertising purposes and only for his educational lectures.

For this reason news reel companies have been refused permission to photograph the historical spot.

Samuel Clemens' wife was a native of Elmira, which caused him to establish his summer home there and build the little study in which, a tablet proclaims, ten of his works were written. The study was built in 1874 and "Huckleberry Finn" appeared in 1876. The last writing he did there was in 1903, Colonel Langdon is now remodeling the house for his own summer home.

Mr. Hamilton will be in Xenia until the middle of June when he goes to the Adirondacks to resume his hotel work.

BRINGING UP FATHER

LIFE SAVING EXPERT OF AMERICAN RED CROSS GIVES SWIMMING POINTS

EDITORS' NOTE—This is the fourth of the series of helpful hints in the water, written by a noted life saving expert, with a view to reducing drownings. The fifth will appear tomorrow.

Lesson No. 4

"Row, Throw, Go, Tow"—Order to Follow in Saving By Commodore W. E. Longfellow Life Saving Expert, American National Red Cross. (Written for International News Service.)

The life saver who uses his head is the one who makes the rescues. One should always use the best mechanical help available when attempting to save a life. When pitted against the forces of the sea, man's efforts are puny unless he utilizes those forces to fight for him instead of against him.

Here is a safe rule: Never dive into the water when a cry for help goes up without first considering how you are going to get out again. An ill-considered action is often more deserving of censure as foolhardiness than it is of praise as bravery. A foolhardy act may result in two deaths instead of one.

Swimming is the last recourse in attempting to rescue a drowning person off shore in deep water. Whenever possible use a boat-in going to the rescue. This provides the means for a safe landing, for rescuer and rescued.

USE BOAT OR LIFE BUOY

If no boat is available, then throw a life buoy; or, if the victim is too far to be reached by a throw, swim out with the buoy. Leave the end of the line in shore to be pulled in in case of current or surf.

A buoy can be safely handed to the drowning person without the danger of the rescuer begin grasped and pulled under.

As a last resort, if neither boat nor life buoy is available, then swim to the rescue, but pick your hold and tow the person ashore.

The rule in making a rescue is: ROW a boat; THROW a buoy; GO yourself; TOW person to safety.

MICHAEL'S MARRIAGE

By MICHAEL

CHAPTER LVI

While her mother watched her with mingled impatience, vexation and resignation, Lillah went about her business of packing her trunk and hand luggage.

For the second time Mrs. Pharley began:

"Daughter, you'd be able to get more in, and with less wrinkles, if you'd—"

"Now mother! You must let me do this. If you packed them how would I know where things were?"

Mrs. Pharley subsided with a shrug. She was watchfully silent for a period, then:

"Of course, Josephine Newman would send you something like a silver door-knocker. A door-knocker!" she repeated contemptuously. "I'll bet somebody gave it to her as a Christmas present—A door-knocker! The idea!"

Lillah paused in her work to smile at her mother. "Now mother! I wish you wouldn't find any more fault with the wedding presents. I think all of them are perfectly lovely. I really don't deserve anything from Mrs. Newman. I—"

She lapsed into silence as she saw her mother shrug again. She wondered what Michael was doing, and what he was thinking about. Was he really at home, as he said he was going to be. She thought of calling, just to see if he was. "No," she told herself, "that wouldn't be nice. He probably is at home."

Her mother handed her a bottle of smelling salts. "You'd better put these where you can get to them easily when you're on the train. You'll probably get sick. I dread the thought of going across the continent."

She paused and looked yearningly ly at her daughter. "I wish we were going together." She sought Lillah's eyes.

Lillah did not look up. She continued her work in silence. She was glad that they were not going together. She wanted to be free—with Michael.

"It only that Alonzo Capper doesn't get drunk tomorrow night," Mother Pharley thought aloud.

"Oh, he won't."

Her mother regarded her skeptically. "He's a bad egg. And you'd better not let Michael mix with him too much."

"Now, mother! I'm not going to try to pick Michael's company for him and I shan't expect him to pick mine."

Mrs. Pharley shrugged again. She arose and stood, for a moment, surveying her daughter with eyes like those of a mother sending her son off to war. She turned toward the door.

"It's a long time since you have slept with me. I wish you would again, tonight—for the last time. There are some things I want to tell you."

They gazed at each other, completely absorbed, until Mother Pharley opened the door and went into the hall.

"All right, mother!"

She relaxed into a chair, and blankly regarded the results of her recent labors.

Tomorrow!

A new world was opening to her.

She curled herself up into a chair, and giggled, then cried, with happiness.

Tomorrow!

Some minutes later she jumped up, switched off the light, and went down the hall toward her mother's room.

ASKS NATION FOR LAW ENFORCEMENT

SEVENTY THREE ARE GIVEN DIPLOMAS AT HIGH COMMENCEMENT

Graduates Hear Professor In Address—Premier Rose Conferred

Three things make America great, first, natural ability of her people; second, heredity, and third, acquired ability through learning Professor C. H. Freeman, head of the department of English at Ohio Northern University, Ada, O., told his audience at the sixty-sixth commencement exercises of Central High School, Friday night at the First M. E. Church.

He traced the progress of the United States along different lines, stressing the educational successes. "The progress of America, is but an outward expression of the American mind," he said. "We are great because we think great thoughts. Three-fifths of the people of the world today are not affiliated with some church and it has fallen to the schools' lot to take up the church's duty, primarily that of teaching morality."

"There are always two classes of people, those who give and those who take. The safety of the country depends on the high morality and intelligence of her people," he said in stressing the importance of the right guidance of children. He declared that the American child is taught sound rules in the home, which is powerful in the good standing of the nation.

"It requires no brain to destroy but it does require intelligence to build." He challenged the boys of the graduating class, if they entered college, to watch their associates, to be honest and industrious and to affiliate with some church.

"Too many" young men want to step on the top rung of the ladder to success at the very start," was one of his closing statements.

Professor Freeman was introduced by C. A. Waltz, city superintendent of schools, who was formerly in Professor Freeman's classes at Ohio Northern.

The address was followed by the conferring of the Premier Rose on Miss Louise Wood and William Horner, who were chosen by their classmates to receive this honor. The custom was inaugurated by Harper C. Pendry, principal of the school, four years ago, and the presentation is now a feature of the graduating exercises.

The ten honor students of the class were then presented their diplomas, followed by the rest of the class roll. Following the presentation Superintendent Waltz made a short talk, advising the graduates of the responsibility that rested with them in leaving high school and the importance of choosing the right path.

The program of the evening opened with two selections by the high school orchestra, under the direction of E. G. Whitworth. Miss Louise Wood played the organ processional during the entrance of the class in caps and gowns. Invocation was pronounced by the Rev. W. H. Tilford of the First Presbyterian Church.

William Horner of the graduating class sang two songs, "Duna" by Gill and "Give a Man a Horse He Can Ride," by Geoffrey O'Hara, accompanied by Miss Marjorie Street.

Miss Mary Noble, also of the class of 1925, gave two violin solos, accompanied by Miss Street. The program closed with an orchestra selection and the benediction by the Rev. R. E. Brown.

The 1925 class included the following students:

Lawrence Allen, Theodore Bailey, Lewis Bales, Elizabeth Bales, Mary Ballantyne, Helen Barr, Velda Beal, Edith Beale, Elizabeth Bickett, John Bracelin, Louis Buell, Mary Crawford, Glenna Dinwiddie.

Harvey Edwards, Clark Ellis, Raymond Gilliam, Gill Albert, Gregory, Fern Griffith, Beulah Guyton, Mary Hamlin, Bertha Henson, Vernon Hickman, Clarence Hisey, Edgar Holton, William Horner, Louise Hunt, Louise Huston, Josephine John, Anna Louise Jones, Harold Jordan, Howard Jordan, Charles Kaiser, Dorothy Lackey, Forest Lane, Mildred Leach, Marguerite Loyd, Bessie McCall, Gladys McCoy, Mabel McCoy, Karl McDaniel, George McKay, Helen Miller.

Children of the War

We are the children who yesterday
Laughed in abandon at our play
As the glowing light of war's wild flame
Guided grief on the deep as it came.
Terror grew in our childish eyes
When the smoke of battle blackened our skies.
Crosses rose like flowers in the night,
And the Cross that conquers might with right
Shrivelled in the heat of men's foul greed,
Mocked by faith in an earthly creed.

We are the children whose pain was deep,
Our innocent lips were locked to keep
The fear and dread that earth never healed
Sweeping the shell-torn battlefield.
Our Mothers taught us prayers to waken
The pitying love of a God Forsaken.
Death and destruction were notes in the song
That half the nations of earth swept along,
Till contempt was burned in the whitening fire
Of the sacrifice of human desire.

We are the children whose tomorrow
Reaps the gift of chastened sorrow,
Knowing the trumpets blown for peace
Are but the sounds that gave release
After the task of tired, dead hands
Salvaged the dreams of their far, proud lands.
In our hearts the splendor glows
That from those graves of glory rose.
We are the children whose happiness
Is bought of wounds and war's distress.

DISCUSS SENDING AID TO FLYERS

Norway Government Divided On Question of Sending Aid To Amundsen Party—Put off Decision Until Later Meet

Oslo, May 30.—The Norwegian government was divided today over the advisability of sending an expedition into the Polar region to search for the Amundsen-Ellsworth flyers who left Spitzbergen in two aeroplanes, two weeks ago last Thursday. In view of Amundsen's instruction that he might not return from his North Pole flight for two weeks, government officials, after discussing the question at one meeting of the cabinet, decided to continue it to another meeting.

The cabinet will discuss proposals made to the government by the aeronautic society and the navy board regarding plans for relief, at its next meeting and probably will decide to dispatch planes, it was said today.

The society has asked that the steamer Farm—one of the Amundsen expedition vessels—be allowed to remain indefinitely in waters around Spitzbergen to afford all possible aid to the Amundsen party.

The society has also asked the government that the official search expedition be composed of two navy aeroplanes.

Public sentiment in Oslo is that the government should take speedy action toward determining the action of the Amundsen-Ellsworth flyers.

Members of the Amundsen party, who still are at Spitzbergen, will support the action of the aeronautic society in urging the government to seek Amundsen, according to reports from Spitzbergen.

The Norwegian air service advanced the theory that Amundsen's delay is due to his having landed his aeroplanes some distance from the pole and then to have gone on to it aloft.

SPORT SCRIBE DEAD

New York, May 30.—William H. Hicks, sporting editor of the New York Evening Journal, for nearly twenty years, is dead at his home here today. He died suddenly late yesterday, following an operation. He was 51 years old and was a native of Chicago.

FORTUNE IN FLOWERS DECKS GRAVES

America's dead will sleep this Memorial Day beneath the richest tribute this nation ever has offered to a sentiment—50,000,000 individual blossoms, representing virtually every variety of flower.

The fortune thus scattered upon the nation's graves, it is estimated, will total $5,000,000.

These figures were obtained in a national survey just completed by the National Memorial Day Association, through its research department.

This survey disclosed that a greater number of blossoms per capita were distributed last year

SURVEYOR FINISHES NEW MAP OF COUNTY

A large blue print map of Greene County, the first to be made for the past fifteen years at the county surveyor's office, has been completed, it was announced Friday by County Surveyor W. J. Davis.

The map includes all of the farms and owners in Greene County together with the total acreage of the farm, and simplifies work at the office.

PUBLISH AT NOON

Following the annual custom of allowing employees of The Gazette and The Republican a half holiday on Memorial Day, The Gazette went to press at noon, Saturday.

The business offices of the plant were closed the entire day, the editorial and mechanical departments working until noon to print the regular edition of the paper.

MERCHANTS WONDER IF BLUE THREAT IS BLUFF ATTEMPT

Will the Sunday closing laws, popularly known as Blue Laws, be universal in Greene County Sunday? Attorney F. L. Johnson, at the instigation of his unknown clients, issued an ultimatum Friday that it must be.

Prosecutor J. C. Marshall remains silent on the question.

Xenia and Greene County business men who may be effected by the state law governing "Sabbath desecration," are undecided whether to keep their places of business open as usual despite the warning of arrests to follow, or close Sunday to escape arrest.

Many are of the opinion that Attorney Johnson is bluffing in his threat to make wholesale arrests next week following failure to close Sunday, and that his clients believe that the simple threat will accomplish their demands.

The fact remains in the minds of many, however, that two arrests this week followed failure of certain businesses to close last Sunday.

PRESIDENT MAKES PLEA FOR BETTER GOVERNMENT

Last Straggling Hosts of G. A. R. Hear Coolidge Memorial Message at Arlington Cemetery—Arraigns Federal System Defects.

Washington, May 30.—From the well of the great memorial amphitheatre at Arlington National cemetery, President Coolidge today sounded a stirring appeal to the nation to observe and enforce the law.

Coupled with his plea, the president bluntly charged the states with evading their constitutionally-given responsibility and causing a loss of confidence in both law and its enforcement and therefore in its observance.

"What we need," he declared, "is not more federal government, but better local government."

"When the local government unit evades its responsibility in one direction," he said apropos of lax enforcement conditions in many localities, "it is started in the vicious way of disregard of law and laxity of living. The police force which is administered on the assumption that the violation of some laws may be ignored has started toward demoralization. The community which approves such administration is making dangerous concessions. There is no use disguising the fact that as a nation our attitude toward the prevention and punishment of crime needs more serious attention. It is senseless to boast of our liberty when we find that to so shocking an extent it is merely the liberty to go ill-governed."

Taking up the problems of interstate relations the president declared the boast that America is a land of equal opportunity suffers through existence of wide divergences in state laws. He mentioned specifically the differences in various state laws governing divorce, taxation and prohibition enforcement.

"The multiplicity of laws, the varied possibilities of appeals, the disposition to technicality in procedure, the delays and consequent expense of litigation which inevitably inure to the advantage of wealth and specialized ability—all these have many times been recounted as reproaches to us," he said.

"It is strange that such laxities should persist in a time like the present."

He spoke before the last straggling hosts of the Grand Army of the Republic. He told them their fight for preservation of the nation sixty years ago might prove to be in vain unless their descendants cast off indifference and rigidly upheld the laws of the land.

Perhaps never before in his administration of the chief magistracy, has Mr. Coolidge delivered such an outspoken arraignment of existing defects in the federal system as he did today.

Pleading for preservation of the dual system of state government and national government, each supreme in its own sphere, he relentlessly called national attention to every defect and every evil of the present day governmental structure.

He specifically charged the several states with failing to perform their full duties; with wilfully ignoring in some communities, certain laws and condoning their violation, with permitting inequalities and divergences, to exist between laws of various states governing the same subjects and with permitting conditions to exist that make possible an evasion of law or a delay in punishment through recourse to technicalities, wealth and specialized ability.

The president mentioned the national prohibition law but once directly in his speech and then as an instance wherein the federal government was forced to assume what fundamentally is a state prerogative.

"A few years ago," he commented, "a majority of the states had adopted prohibition or rigid restrictions on the traffic in intoxicating liquor. But other states did not co-operate in adding the union by failing to meet the vanishing his policy and ultimately, by requirements of a national demand, the state became deprived of the power to act."

Mr. Coolidge attributed the increasing demands of the federal government to failure of the states themselves to discharge their duties, and sarcastically paid his respects to those who expected more from Washington than it was ever intended to provide and yet, in the same breath complain that federal authority is stretching itself over areas which do not concern it.

Industries in Greene County halted Saturday Memorial Day, business houses closed, and commerce paused in silent tribute, as a mark of respect to the dead soldiers of three wars.

Memorial Day observance was universal in the county with plans of patriotic organizations completed. Services were conducted at all county cemeteries and the usual parade will take place Saturday afternoon in Xenia.

The procession will form at Main and Collier, and although with sadly depleted ranks, veterans of three wars, will march side by side in silent tribute to their departed comrades.

Pleasure seekers took advantage of the perfect summer weather to flock to the theatres, parks and highways.

Speedway, Indianapolis, Ind., May 30.—Pushing, jostling, milling thousands battling for choice positions around the track, a narrow ribbon of brick blistering hot, under the rays of a torrid sun; motors, tuned to the last notch of perfection, shrieking out predictions of a speed never before equalled by man traveling on the ground, as they sped around the huge oval in final trials—this was the speedway here today as 200,000 people drawn from every section of the country by the lure of speed with death riding on the cowl, awaited the start of the 500 mile classic.

All day yesterday and today, the track drew its stream of humanity from every highway leading to the city. As early as noon yesterday, the first cars were lined up outside the grandstand waiting for them to open this morning so as to obtain advantageous positions in the area around the pits.

Indications were that this year's visitors would see the breaking of the track record of 93.23 miles an hour established last year by L. L. Corum and Joseph H. Boyer.

Qualifiers this year were led by Leon Duray, driving a Miller Special, who averaged 113.196 miles an hour for the ten qualifying miles. Thirteen others qualified at over 100 miles.

Three others were to attempt to qualify this morning. Last year there were only eight to qualify at a speed better than 100 miles an hour.

The race today will get under way at ten o'clock. The winner will find a purse approximately of $20,000 awaiting him. In addition there are $30,000 in awards for the best lap time, the leader at the half way mark and the leader at the end of each 100 miles.

The cars will start in the following order: three cars to the row: Miller, Duray; Dusenberg, DePaolo; Miller, Hartz; Junior, Cooper; Junior, Lewis; Miller, Hepburn; Miller, Ellingboe; Fiat, Bordini; Dusenberg, Kresiss; Miller, Elliott; Miller, Milton; Miller, Comers; Miller, Hill; Miller, Shattuck; Miller, DeVore; Dusenberg, Morton; Jones-Whittaker; Jones; Miller, DePalma; R. J. Vail (special) Vail; Dusenberg, Manogh; Skelly, (special) Skelly; Dusenberg, Shafer.

Three others who have a chance to qualify this morning are: Belt, super-Ford; Thickston, Smith Special and Alley, Kess-Line Special.

A GOOD BROOM IS PRODUCT OF FINE AND CLEVER WORK

What is more provoking to a housewife than to be busily sweeping her home, with vigorous, quick strokes and to have a broom that leaves a trail of straws over the path she has swept?

Or to have a broom that soon lost its firmness, became an unkempt looking article, the entire piece showing poor workmanship and, did you by the way ever notice the exacting workmanship required in a broom, the skill it took to fashion the clumsy straw into such a handy article?

Every broom made at the Hunt Broom Factory, Dayton Avenue, has the stamp of expert workmanship and you can rest assured that a broom made at that plant will pay for its price in service and dependability.

From a humble origin, the Hunt factory has grown to be the second largest broom factory in the state. The plant turns out several hundred brooms a month and is busy filling orders over the entire country.

Only expert workmen are employed and since the process is a tedious one, the work is aided with the installation of the most modern of machinery, to speed production.

BUILDING BOOM TO CONTINUE IS BELIEF OF MANY

Contractors all over the city are confident that Xenia is to have a big building year through the summer, as evidenced by the increase in construction during the past spring. Many major projects have been started, including business buildings and private residences.

J. W. Kendrick, general contractor, has given proof of his belief in a building boom, since he has started the construction of several residences on North Galloway Street.

Mr. Kendrick has introduced several innovations in the building art, and his houses under construction have been the center of interest of home-lovers. He combines a unique style with practical models and the homes he builds, while out of the ordinary are ideal in their simple construction and arrangement.

He will be glad to furnish estimates for you on any line of work and no matter how big the job is you'll find he has a ready knowledge of anything in the building line you may want to know.

T. C. LONG GIVES SERVICE IN BIG REALTY BUSINESS

Most any man will tell you that one of the greatest moments of his life was the occasion when he moved into his own home. You, too, can enjoy moving into your own home. You, too, like thousands of other individuals can have the extreme pleasure of moving into your own.

Why pay rent any longer? Find your ideal type of home, by consulting T. C. Long, realtor, with offices in the Wilson Building. He will be glad to give you information on homes in various parts of the city and county.

On the other hand, if you wish to sell your farm or city property, within a short time and at the most reasonable figure, consult Mr. Long.

Mr. Long has a wide acquaintance over this district and has gained a large business through his square dealing, both for the seller and the buyer. It is the service and personal interest that he offers you that has brought so many home-seekers to him in the past. When a client consults Mr. Long for help in choosing a future home, he goes on the market in search for it with the same interest as if he were making the purchase for himself.

SNUBBERS ARE A VITAL AUTO FACTOR WITH NEW TIRES

With balloon and low pressure tires coming into stronger favor constantly, Gabriel Snubbers are more than ever a necessity on motor cars, say the proprietors of Swigart Brothers Garage, East Second Street. The new Gabriel Balloon Type Snubber is designed to give the necessary free play which allows the tires to absorb the small bumps on apparently smooth roads.

"A set of Gabriels on a car more than pays for itself by saving in tires, body socks and wear on the chassis parts," say Messrs. Swigart. "It does this by minimizing the jolts to which every car is subject while on the road. This is thoroughly proved by the fact that practically every manufacturer of quality automobiles, includes snubbers as factory equipment on at least some of his models, or drills holes in the frame especially for their installation."

KNOW YOUR TEAM'S STANDING—GO TO HAYWARD'S SHOP

Baseball fans have to wait no longer on the evening paper to come out, giving the results of the day's game. They can keep in step with each play, by watching the ticker, installed in the Hayward Cigar Store, East Main Street.

Crowds group around the ticker each afternoon and closely follow the results of the games over the country. The ticker is only one of the attractive features of the Hayward Store, which handles a large stock of the finest tobacco. Delicious sandwiches are on hand at the shop at any hour of the day, and during the warm summer months cooling drinks are sold to the large number of customers.

The shop is a popular congregating place for men over the city and the informality and good spirit of the place, makes the shop hold a good business record.

PURITY OF DAIRY PRODUCTS POINT TO BE STRESSED

Now that cows are allowed to roam over green pastures, butter has once again taken on the golden tint and milk and cream are thick and rich in their freshness.

Most housewives are more particular about good butter in the summer time, because it is more apt to get rancid during the hot weather. Butter sold by the Springfield Dairy Products Company, Hill Street, is golden in its own natural color, no foreign products being used to color or cheapen the product and every housewife can be sure that she is getting the purest and freshest milk, cream, butter and all dairy products if she trades with this firm.

The Springfield Dairy Products deliver its products to all parts of the city and there is no worry about their condition, because they are made from the purest milk handled in the most sanitary manner and delivered while perfectly fresh from the plant.

VEGETABLES AND FRUIT IMPORTANT FACTORS OF DIET

The coming of warm weather spells sluggish blood, lack of the proper vitality and a general building up of the system, to many.

Physicians agree that one of the most important factors of diet and food that will purify the blood and give new vigor to the entire system is fresh fruit or vegetables.

The practice of eating fresh fruit and green vegetables the year round is a good one as they keep the body in a healthy condition and assist digestion. But the good results are particularly noticeable in the summer, when the heat-giving foods of winter are abandoned and fresher, and more simple things are chosen for the menu. The highest quality in fruits and vegetables is noticed in the large Main Street, Mr. Nichols is always a little ahead of the season in his offering of the newest fruits and vegetables and many popular articles of eating are to be found there without difficulty. The combination of fruit and vegetables is an important one with all meals and success in obtaining a variety is appreciated by housewives.

PLAN JAIL TERMS FOR MOTORISTS IN SAFETY CAMPAIGN

Washington, May 30.—Traffic courts throughout the United States are beginning to heed the cry of street safety advocates by sending careless and drunken automobile drivers to jail, according to reports received by Secretary of Commerce Hoover, chairman of the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety.

Until the attention of the public was focused on the heavy loss of life resulting from traffic accidents there was a tendency toward leniency on the part of the courts for offenders, officials of the conference said.

The drive for more drastic enforcement of the statutes and for the adoption of more effective legislation against violators of traffic laws has been reflected in a considerably reduced death rate during the first four months of 1925.

Last year from 19,000 to 20,000 persons were killed in traffic accidents. Schools, churches, civic and commercial bodies throughout the United States are co-operating with Secretary Hoover's safety organization to make the streets and highways safer.

Prior to December, when the national conference meets in Washington, a number of its subordinate committees will hold meetings to formulate recommendations aimed at improving traffic conditions.

Chief Magistrate William McAdoo, of New York, heads the law enforcement committee. He has made a wide study of traffic conditions in New York, probably the most trying from the standpoint of regulation of any city in the world. Ideas to regulation successfully employed in New York will be passed on for the benefit of other cities.

Washington, according to Secretary Hoover, has been converted into a gigantic traffic laboratory, where a new system is being tried out, which, it is hoped, will be applicable to other cities of the United States.

The American Automobile Association, co-operating in the safety drive has asked the various motor clubs in the United States to get behind the movement.

"A few years ago the impression was that motor clubs in many cases consisted of motorists banded together to advance their own selfish interests regardless of the rights of others," declared A. B. Barber, of the national safety conference.

"But, with the aid of the splendid organizations effected both locally and nationally by the American Automobile Association, a standard of conduct—code of ethics for motor operations—is rapidly gaining strength. It will make the law necessary only against those relatively few who will continue to abuse the privileges of the streets and highways."

BANKERS TO MEET

Columbus, May 20.—Approximately 1,000 bankers, from all parts of Ohio, are expected to attend the 35th annual convention of the Ohio Bankers' Association here June 3-5. A number of topics of vital import in the commercial and financial fields will be considered, it was announced.

ATTENDS ALUMNI OF JAMESOWN HIGH SCHOOL

Mrs. George Balder, North King Street, attended the meeting of the alumni of the Jamestown High School, held at the Methodist Church in Jamestown, Friday night.

More than 100 members of the alumni attended the banquet. Attorney Stanley Paxson of Washington, C. H., was the toastmaster of the evening and as he called on former professors and pupils for speeches, he brought back memories of school days.

Miss Martha Smith, of Dayton, played three piano numbers and Miss Leonie Jenks of Jamestown, played two violin numbers.

Mrs. Balder, Mr. Alfred Ogan, of Greenfield, and Mr. Laurence Edgington, of Jamestown, were the only members present representing their graduating class.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Stephenson, of Fairground Avenue, are spending Memorial Day, in Portland, Ind.

MAC RAE'S POEM HAS INSPIRED MESSAGE OF LEGION OFFICER

Commander James A. Drain Promises To "Keep Faith" With Those Who Died

Indianapolis, Indiana, May 30.—The Memorial Day message of James A. Drain, National Commander, to The American Legion is published in The American Legion Weekly today as follows:

To you, from failing hands, we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high.

You will recognize those lines from the most famous poem inspired by the World War—Colonel John MacRae's "In Flanders Field." Colonel MacRae himself sleeps in Flanders Field. His message rings true wherever men pause in the routine of their lives to gain a renewed spirit of consecration to country from homage they give to the memory of our wars.

To us, of the Legion, that annual pause of a moment brings a reconsecration whose impress is stamped deeper on our hearts every Memorial Day. For we served side by side with these men whose memory we honor, and side by side with those other men, still carrying the scars of their devotion, whom we honor face to face.

This year, working as a more powerful, closely-knit unit than ever before since we came out of war, we are translating this reconsecration into a most constructive and practical movement which we call the American Legion Endowment Fund. The income from this Fund will be devoted to the service of the Legion in aid of our disabled comrades and to the care of the children whose fathers did not come back.

This is the finest monument The American Legion can raise in memory of its departed and in homage to its maimed comrades. To us, from failing hands, they have thrown the torch. It is ours to hold it high. We shall keep the faith.

ATTENTION TURNED TO FRANCE AS OTHER NATIONS PAY DEBTS

Washington, May 30.—Having received assurances that two of the principal debtors of the United States—Italy, and Belgium—are getting ready to send debt funding commissions to Washington during the summer, the government today concentrated its attention on France, more hopeful that ever that definite plans for funding the $4,000,000,000 French debt would now be forthcoming.

It was the opinion of members of the American debt commission that the French government, even if its plan for paying its debt to this country, had not been worked out in complete detail, would not delay much longer in getting on the band wagon and that some such formal gesture by France would be made, such as promise through the French ambassador here, to open debt negotiations at an early date. This is a fact that has actually been done by Belgium and Italy, although the former's promise was more definite than that of Italy. In that Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, as chairman of the American debt commission has been advised by the Belgian ambassador that part of the personnel of the Belgian debt commission already has been selected and that the members will proceed to the United States following a debt conference to take place shortly among officials of the Brussels government.

FAMOUS FRENCH RECIPES

HACHIS PARMENTIER

Hachis Parmentier (hash Parmentier) is one of the best-known recipes for French hash and the French housewife's way of getting rid of cooked leftovers.

It may be made of left-overs of pork, veal, mutton or beef. Chop the meat into very fine pieces, removing all the skin and gristle. Fry a chopped onion in butter and sprinkle with flour. Add the chopped meat and a little bouillon to make it boil without burning. The meat should then be like a thick paste which can be spread.

Butter a special flat dish and put in mashed potatoes to which have been added beaten eggs and some grated cheese. Spread over a layer of the meat, then one of the potatoes, and sprinkle with cheese. Continue until both meat and potatoes are finished, adding lumps of fresh butter from time to time. Bake in a hot oven. Southern Frenchmen add a touch of garlic to the dish which is equally good hot or cold.

MODISH MITZI—Simple Costumes For The Simple Life

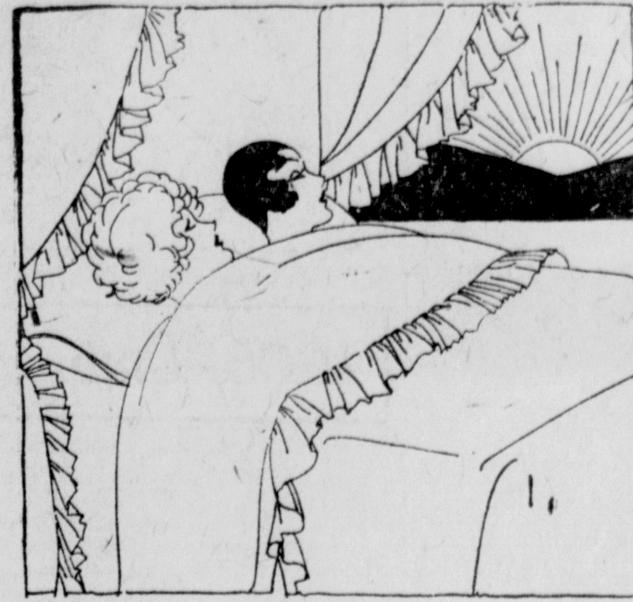

By JAY V. JAY

This country life is wonderful. But it makes one talk rashly. Where is that resolution to get up at sunrise and pick strawberries made by Mitzi and Polly? Here's the sunrise and you can clearly see they have no intention of rising with the sun or anything else.

This is the same morning later. A good deal later. Mitzi and Polly are picking strawberries. Mitzi's part is in pointing them out. Polly has urged her not to get her printed voile frock soiled, a full skirt with godets is meant for greater things.

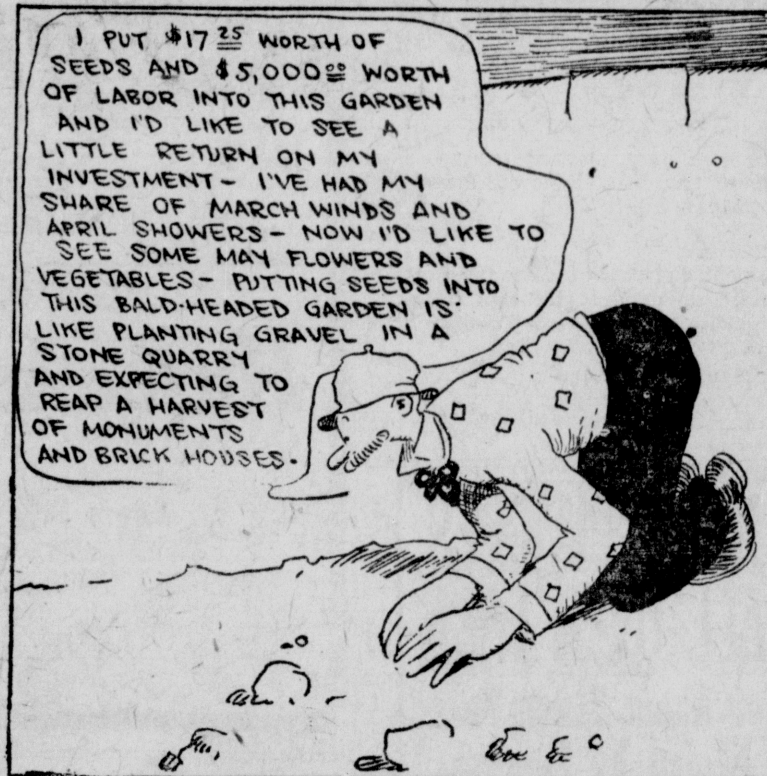

Polly, the practical little person, wears an apron frock. It's an English sateen and has pockets in it and ties in the back. Polly is wondering where all the strawberries went that she picked. There don't seem to be so many in the basket. Mitzi is perfectly guileless.

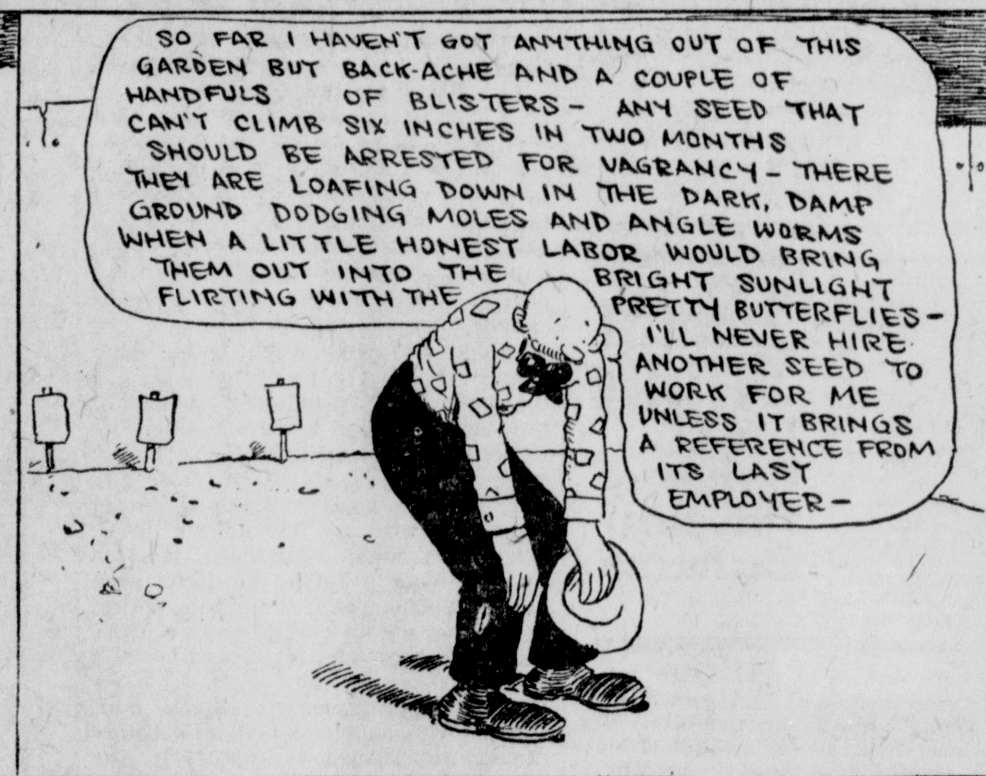

Aunt Sophia protests: "There must have been more than these." But Polly knows that there aren't any more than those, now. She did her best and Aunt Sophia appreciates it. Mitzi is going to change into a simple little garden frock... for gardening.

STUDY MERCHANT MARINE

AT the request of the President a careful study is being made by the various executive departments into the recommendations submitted by organizations which represent practically the entire merchant marine of the country. The report which results from this study will doubtless be used by the President as a basis for his recommendations to the next Congress on the subject of the merchant marine.

Just what will be done about the American marine is of course problematical, but it is expected that some plan will be evolved calculated to keep the American flag flying on the high seas. Statistics compiled for the administration, however, show that some action must be taken in behalf of the merchant marine. For instance, during the eight months ending with February last, American ships conveyed 36.89 per cent in value of our exports and 31.23 per cent of our imports, as compared with 39.29 per cent of our imports in the corresponding eight months ending with February, 1924. It is declared authoritatively that this tendency, if left to go on unchecked, eventually would bring our shipping where it stood in 1914, when only nine per cent of our imports and exports were being conveyed in American vessels.

LINING UP FOR TAX REDUCTION

EVIDENTLY Secretary Mellon's crusade in behalf of further income tax reduction is bearing results. The Secretary in his speeches has been conducting a campaign of education. On two recent occasions he has invaded the South. He makes the same argument everywhere. High surtaxes send capital into the retirement of non-taxable securities and the Government is deprived of revenue that otherwise would swell its receipts. There is not the shadow of doubt of this. The proof is overwhelming.

Mr. Mellon is on the right track. He insists that this question of tax reduction and tax reform is nonpartisan. He recalls to his hearers that Senator Glass, Democrat, took the same view on surtaxes when Secretary of the Treasury under President Wilson. To make it certain that he cannot be accused of drafting a bill for the coming session of Congress to consider, Mr. Mellon intends to give advice only, leaving to the respective committees of the House and Senate the task of formulating a measure.

Republican leaders are very generally agreed that the surtaxes must come down and that reductions must be applied to other schedules. The chairmen of the House Ways and Means and Appropriations Committees are not far apart. Speaker Lonkworth looks for a revised law. Representative Bacharach of New Jersey, a member of Ways and Means, is of the sensible opinion that all surtaxes should be abolished in the interest of simpler administration and that progressive normal taxes would bring in the amount from surtaxes, but his suggestion has not been taken up seriously. Last week Senator Couzens, who has long been the enemy of Secretary Mellon, announced in a speech at Baltimore that he favored cutting surtaxes to a 20 per cent maximum and abolishing taxes on all incomes of less than $5000. Senator Willis' slogan is "A million a day of tax away."

Secretary Mellon's appeal for non-partisan action creates the opportunity for Democratic co-operation. Senator Glass of Virginia and Senator Bruce of Maryland, both Democrats, practically support the Secretary. It is quite possible that Democratic policy will tend toward a more severe cutting than is wise and to this extent many embrace politics. But in any event, if the Democratic leaders hope to resuscitate their party, they must sever relations with La Follette bloc and go in for constructive legislation.

HIDE YOUR HEADACHES

It is human to suffer, the toothache's a thing
Which is apt to occur to both peasant and king;
This body is prey to all manner of pain,
A headache will come to the commonest brain;
There are all sorts of trouble for mortals to know,
Which the foolish display and the wise never show.

Jim Green kept a shop and the wares he displayed
And the prices he charged should have built up a trade,
But if Jim had a headache, then all who might come
To buy from his stock found him surly and glum,
He'd quarrel over trifles and grouch through the day
And "take it or leave it," he'd frequently say.

The customers found in their dealings with Jim
'Twas a difficult thing to do business with him;
They heard him complain of the troubles he bore,
And they tired of his conduct and passed up his store,
His prices were fair and his goods were the best
But to put up with Jim was too much of a test.

It's the man, not the store, when it's all said and done!
To the man goes the battle and not to the gun!

THE ETERNAL CARAVAN

Like silent shadows of the night,
Moved an endless column, of the dead;
Surrounded by unearthly light,
With a "Mighty Leader" at their head!

Triumphantly in spectral array,
He led them onward, "neath the skies I saw;
From "Tenements of Clay,"
"Immortal Souls" in glory, rise!

Then closer came the myriad dead,
And plainly could I see,
The "Supreme One" was at their head,
Their goal—Eternity!

MEMORIAL DAY

1905-Twenty Years Ago-1925

Harry Armstrong was elected captain of Company L, 4th Regiment of the Ohio National Guard, at an election which took place Wednesday.

The Xenia Driving Club's opening race meet for the season took place Thursday afternoon at the fair grounds and was attended by a large number of people.

Of the class of six young men who, Wednesday took a preliminary physical examination for the appointment at the Annapolis naval academy to succeed Charles Adair, four failed.

OUR GALLANT DEAD

The following Memorial Day poem was written by Mrs. Julia G. Olds, Cincinnati, formerly Miss Julia Galoway and well known here. I often think of Flanders' Fields
Where wild the poppies blow,
And stark white wooden crosses gleam
In slanting row on row.

I cannot think of them as dead
Who sleep beneath the sod;
Their eager souls press ever on
Up to the heights of God.

The ancient flower of Chivalry
Found full fruition there
In deeds of matchless bravery
And love beyond compare.

There youth in verdant purity
Flamed into manhood's bloom
And burgeoned for futurity
Triumphant o'er the tomb.

Out from the sorrows of the past
A race of men walked free;
And from the life blood of our sires
We gained our liberty.

We cannot count their lives as lost,
Though sown in grief and pain,
Who gives himself—nor counts the cost.
Can live or die in vain.

—Julia G. Olds.

Today's Talks

THINKING

Everything depends on how we think.
If we do no thinking everything then is wrong. The world is twisted. And, so, naturally, we slide with the world.

Every rule, every act, every impulse is at the beck and call of some thought.

The human frame will put up with a marvelous amount of wrong thinking, but it will bounce upward in health and happiness at every thought that has for its purpose the bettering of this world.

A person is able to think himself into most anything. A great engineer once told me that he thought himself into the marvelous success that came to him. He started with nothing, seemingly. He thought himself into vast power and influence.

We must all think ourselves along. And if the way gets very rough at times, we must do more and better thinking.

Thoughts are both the father and mother of deeds.

The very membranes and numerous organs of the body are but willing servants to the brain in its imaginings and thinking.

The more thinking you do the fewer mistakes you are bound to make, and the greater progress you are sure to meet.

And if you get into a tight place, don't fret and worry and run. Think. Calmly think—and then bravely act. The result will take care of itself.

The reason why human beings dominate and rule is because they think.

You can think yourself into a very beautiful world, even though it may show before your very eyes the evidence of great wreckage and disaster.

The great God thought this world all out in advance. And when He had established its basic parts it made Him very happy.

TO BUILD SUBWAY

Chillicothe, May 30—In compliance with the request of city officials, engineers of the Baltimore and Ohio and the Norfolk and Western railroads have submitted tentative plans and estimates for a subway at the main street crossings. The railroad engineers' estimate of the cost of this improvement is $416,000, compared with City Engineer Richards' estimate of $275,000. Accepting higher units of cost on labor and material accounts for the railroad engineers' higher estimate.

UNVEIL OLD CANNON

Middleport, May 30—An ancient brass cannon, found in an old Spanish fort, in the Philippine islands, will be unveiled here today (Memorial Day.) The old piece was presented to Meigs County by a retired army officer, Gen. S. W. Fountaine.

APPEAL TO REASON

What is meant by "long circuit appeal" and "short circuit appeal" in advertising?

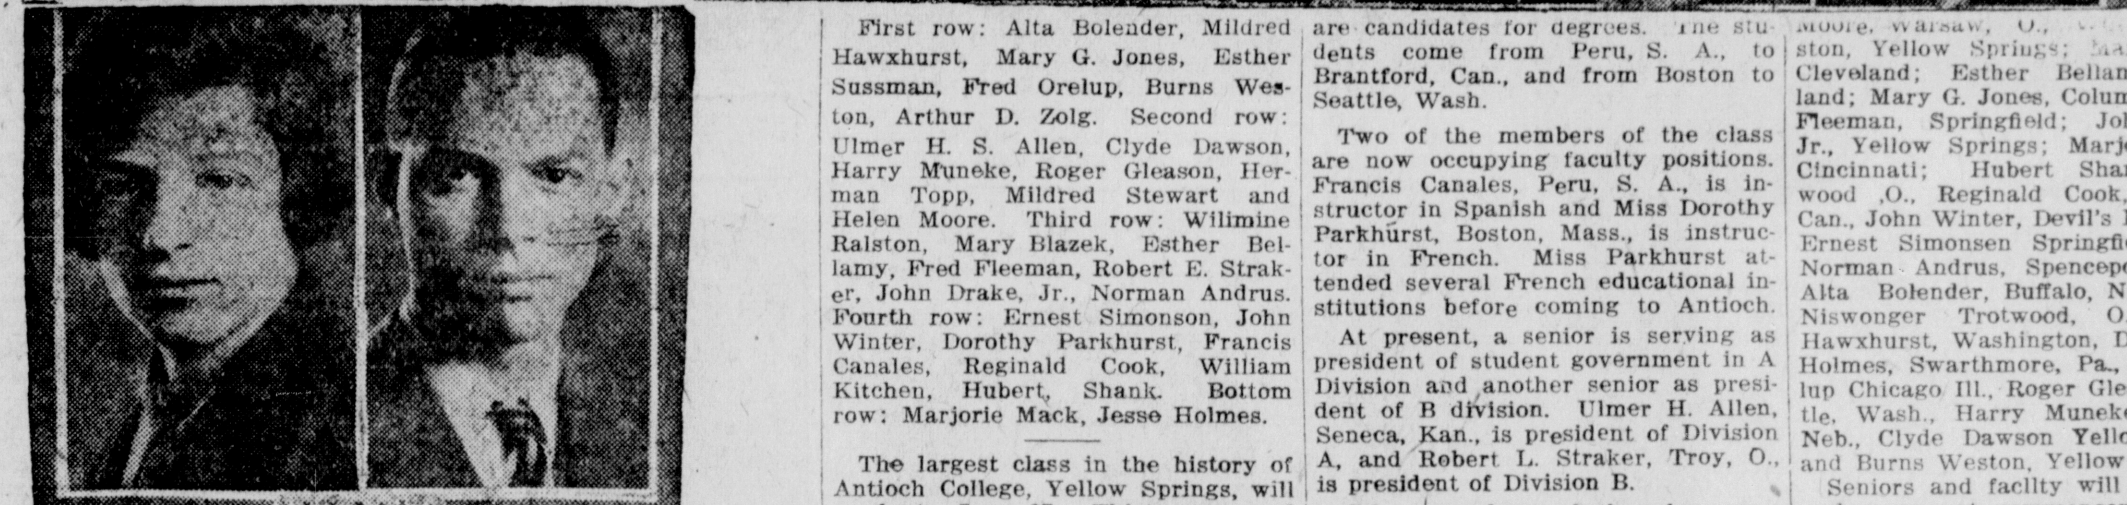

In general, it may be said that long circuit appeal advertising appeals to the reason while short circuit appeal advertising appeals to the emotions. If the message of the advertiser is a short, vivid one which can be told in a few words it almost always depends on its appeal for its emotional effect. Cigarette, perfume and toilet accessory ads usually use this appeal. An ad which captivates your interest by some startling phrase and then goes into a discussion of the merits of the product it is advertising is a long circuit appeal ad. Several motor manufacturers have put out some very good ads of this type recently. A careful study is necessary to determine which type should be used for any particular advertisement and product.

KELLY COMPANY NINE DEFEATS TILTONS IN PITCHERS DUEL AT WASHINGTON PARK FRIDAY

The R. A. Kelly Company nine continued the fast pace it has been setting in the Saturday Afternoon League Friday night by defeating the Tiltons "33" nine by a score of 5 to 3 in a seven inning classic at the Washington Park diamond.
The game devolved into a pitcher's battle between Milburn for the Kelly team and D. Fuller for the Tiltons, with the former having a slight edge. Milburn fanned six and allowed but six hits while Fuller struck out five and granted eight hits.

The winners got away to a flying start in the first two innings scoring two runs in each frame but Fuller put on the brakes and held the Kelly nine to one run in the remaining five innings.

The Tiltons bunched hits in the third to score twice and chalked up a final marker in the eighth on passes. The game was fast and cleanly played with misplays few and far between. The winners made but two errors and the Tiltons but one.

Ritter played a bang up game at second for the Kellys clouting out a pair of doubles and scoring one run himself in three trips to the plate. He also accepted four chances in the field cleanly. Berger was good for a double and a single.

Brickie, D. Fuller, Mendenhall, J. Fuller, Cain and Bottorff each hit safely for the Tiltons. Games in the Saturday Afternoon League will be resumed next Saturday. The lineup and score:

BLUE RIBBONS HAVE GOOD REPUTATION

The Reserves will tackle a sturdy diamond foe at Washington Park Sunday afternoon when they engage the Blue Ribbons of Dayton.

The Ribbons have a classy outfit and have been showing the way to all teams around Dayton and vicinity. They have been playing excellent ball and the Reserves will be in for a merry time when they take on the Ribbons outfit. They have scored wins over Tipp City and Middletown Middles and other fast clubs while they lost but one game this being their opener to the Dayton Nickles by a 11 to 8 score. The Ribbons have been organized for five seasons and are always noted for having a smart, clean and fast ball club. They possess a bunch of sluggers that is liable to break up a game most anytime.

The Reserves will use the same lineup against the Ribbons that they will against the Cubs and they are confident with Cyphers in the box they can defeat the Gem City tribe but they will have to step plenty fast in order to do so. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock.

URBANA HIGH BEATS BATH BASEBALLERS

After three innings of scoreless baseball, Urbana High School broke the ice in the fourth scoring three runs and was never headed, defeating Bath High at Urbana Friday by a score of 8 to 3.

Bath was only able to score in the sixth when three tallies trickled over the plate. With two men on the paths, Fisher, Bath catcher, clouted out a home run.

Pitchers Bodey and Wilson proved a puzzle to Bath batters who were only able to hit safely four times. Hunter pitched a fine game for Bath retiring ten men by the strike-out route, but errors by his teammates coupled with timely hitting by Urbana players contributed to the defeat.

The game was marred by the ragged fielding of both teams, Bath making six misplays and Urbana five. Bath lineup—Fulton, 1b; Hunter, p; Fisher, c; Schildneck, lf; W. Sipe, rf; Keith, cf; Semler, 3b; Lehrke, 2b; Shade, ss; Ryan, cf.

Score by innings:

R. H. HAMILTON TAKES FIRST MOVIES OF TWAIN SUMMER HOME

R. H. Hamilton, lecturer, returned Friday afternoon from Elmira, N. Y., where he spent two weeks giving a course of lectures to girl students of Elmira College for the Lewis Hotel Training School of Washington, D. C.
Mr. Hamilton lectured on hotel training and fifty girls who took the course to qualify for summer hotel work at Adirondack resorts were placed by him for the summer. Elmira is the first college to give degrees to women, it is said.
While at Elmira, Mr. Hamilton made moving pictures of college activities, the campus and buildings and accompanied the student body to Watkins Glen, N. Y., where motion pictures were taken of the annual May Day ceremonies.
It was also on his visit there that

Mr. Hamilton was permitted to take motion picture, of Mark Twain's summer home and study, near Elmira, where he wrote "Huckleberry Finn" and a number of other of his important works. Permission for the photography at "Quarry Farm", a mile or two from the village, was given by Colonel Langdon. Twain's brother-in-law, after Mr. Hamilton gave assurance they would not be used for advertising purposes and only for his educational lectures. For this reason news reel companies have been refused permission to photograph the historical spot.

Samuel Clemens' wife was a native of Elmira, which caused him to establish his summer home there and build the little study in which, a tablet proclaims, ten of his works were written. The study was built in 1874 and "Huckleberry Finn" appeared in 1876. The last writing he did there was in 1903, Colonel Langdon is now remodeling the house for his own summer home.

Mr. Hamilton will be in Xenia until the middle of June when he goes to the Adirondacks to resume his hotel work.

CALLS ATTENTION TO BILL COVERING APPROPRIATION USE

County Auditor R. O. Wead has prepared letters which will be sent to the County Commissioners, village councils, boards of education and township trustees, calling their attention to amended senate bill No. 94 which provides the use of money by taxing districts before it is appropriated effective July 20 and applicable to the 1925 budget. By the provisions of the new law the budget for all taxing districts on January 1 and public hearing on budget levies are made obligatory by the officials of each taxing district. The new law compels an appropriation to be made at the start of each year for each purpose for which money will be spent; protects taxpayers against fraudulent use of levies voted preceding the re-appraisal, and prevents the use of money ahead of time prior to its being levied.
The law is applicable to every county, city village, township and school district of the state and compels the filing of the tax levy budget with the county auditor on or prior to July 20. The budget was heretofore filed on the first Monday in June, but the amended bill extends the time.

LIFE SAVING EXPERT OF AMERICAN RED CROSS GIVES SWIMMING POINTS

EDITORS' NOTE—This is the fourth of the series of helpful hints in the water, written by a noted life saving expert, with a view to reducing drownings. The fifth will appear tomorrow.

Lesson No. 4
"Row, Throw, Go, Tow"
Order to Follow in Saving
By Commodore W. E. Longfellow
Life Saving Expert
American National Red Cross.
(Written for International News Service.)

The life saver who uses his head is the one who makes the rescues. One should always use the best mechanical helps available when attempting to save a life. When pitted against the forces of the sea, man's efforts are puny unless he utilizes those forces to fight for him instead of against him.

Here is a safe rule: Never dive into the water when a cry for help goes up without first considering how you are going to get out again. An ill-considered action is often more deserving of censure as foolhardiness than it is of praise as bravery. A foolhardy act may result in two deaths instead of one.

Swimming is the last recourse in attempting to rescue a drowning person off shore in deep water. Whenever possible use a boat in going to the rescue. This provides the means for a safe landing, for rescuer and rescued.

USE BOAT OR LIFE BUOY
If no boat is available, then throw a life buoy; or, if the victim is too far to be reached by a throw, swim out with the buoy. Leave the end of the line in shore to be pulled in in case of current or surf.

A buoy can be safely handed to the drowning person without the danger of the rescuer begin grasped and pulled under.

As a last resort, if neither boat nor life buoy is available, then swim to the rescue, but pick your hold and tow the person ashore.

The rule in making a rescue is: ROW a boat; THROW a buoy; GO yourself; TOW person to safety.

MICHAEL'S MARRIAGE

By MICHAEL

CHAPTER XVI
While her mother watched her with mingled impatience, vexation and resignation, Lilah went about her business of packing her trunk and hand luggage.

For the second time Mrs. Pharley began: "Daughter, you'd be able to get more in, and with less wrinkles, if you'd—"

This time Lilah spoke out: "Now mother! You must let me do this. If you packed them how would I know where things were?"

Mrs. Pharley subsided with a shrug. She was watchfully silent for a period, then:

"Of course, Josephine Newman would send you something like a silver door-knocker. A door knocker!" she repeated contemptuously. "I'll bet somebody gave it to her as a Christmas present—A door-knocker! The idea!"

Lilah paused in her work to smile at her mother. "Now mother! I wish you wouldn't find any more fault with the wedding presents. I think all of them are perfectly lovely. I really don't deserve anything from Mrs. Newman. I—"

She lapsed into silence as she saw her mother shrug again. She wondered what Michael was doing, and what he was thinking about. Was he really at home, as he said he was going to be. She thought of calling, just to see if he was. "No," she told herself, "that wouldn't be nice. He probably is at home."

Her mother handed her a bottle of smelling salts. "You'd better put these where you can get to them easily when you're on the train. You'll probably get sick. I dread the thought of going across the continent."

She paused and looked yearningly at her daughter. "I wish we were going together." She sought Lilah's eyes.

Lilah did not look up. She continued her work in silence. She was glad that they were not going together. She wanted to be free—with Michael.

"If only that Alonzo Capper doesn't get drunk tomorrow night," Mother Pharley thought aloud.

"Oh, he won't." Her mother regarded her skeptically. "He's a bad egg. And you'd better not let Michael mix with him too much."

"Now, mother! I'm not going to try to pick Michael's company for him and I shan't expect him to pick mine."

Mrs. Pharley shrugged again. She arose and stood, for a moment, surveying her daughter with eyes like those of a mother sending her son off to war. She turned toward the door.

"It's a long time since you have slept with me. I wish you would again, tonight—for the last time. There are some things I want to tell you."

They gazed at each other, completely absorbed, until, Mother Pharley opened the door and went into the hall.

"All right, mother!" She relaxed into a chair, and blankly regarded the results of her recent labors.

Tomorrow! A new world was opening to her.

She curled herself up into a chair, and giggled, then cried, with happiness.

Tomorrow! Some minutes later she jumped up, switched off the light, and went down the hall toward her mother's room.
